How the Annual Conference session impacts you

The Annual Conference session is a yearly meeting for clergy and laity to worship and to conduct Conference business. But what does the AC session mean for congregants? Here are the top-seven effects of the session:

- Future goals are set. For example, the leadership report states that this year's focus will be on anchoring our culture of leadership development through concrete practices, programs, structures, budgets, tactics, and strategies. In addition, there is a goal this year of improving our Shared Ministry.
- Future programs are adopted. For instance, the Conference launched the Leadership Academy, which strives to increase the leadership capacity within the Conference and involves retreat-style sessions.
- Programs the Conference has participated in are celebrated. For example, this year, Africa 360— the Conference's holistic plan for health and education initiatives in Africa that benefits Imagine No Malaria and Africa University — comes to a close.

- Future budgets are adopted. This impacts Ministry Shares and determines where ministry dollars are focused. View the proposed budget in the 2016 Upper New York Conference Journal, Vol. 1: <http://tinyurl.com/2016JournalVol1> (see P. 14-19). The Vol 1 of the Journal was previously known as the Pre-Conference Workbook.

- Petitions and resolutions are voted upon. Resolutions and petitions impact everything from the Upper New York Conference's public stance on political issues to the way clergy are cared for.
- Clergy are commissioned and ordained. The path to ordination begins when a local church formally endorses a member to explore a call to pastoral ministry. After many steps, that individual is elected by clergy colleagues into Conference membership at clergy session, ordained to representative ministry on behalf of the Church by the Bishop, and appointed to a local church or other ministry setting.

- Pastoral appointments become official and are celebrated at AC session. This is when pastors are assigned to Conference churches.
