Develop, teach, and evaluate a 6-session Bible Study based on a single biblical book of your choice.

This Bible Study must be of your own design, with the assistance of reference materials. Show that you have done research and know the material yourself.

We are looking for studies that are fully developed in terms of learning goals and objectives for the overall study, as well as each of the six lessons. Please state these goals. Be sure your goals are Specific, Achievable, and Measurable (SAM).

Pay attention to various learning styles and include activities that meet the needs of individual learners. Include at least one hands-on activity for each lesson. Be creative!

Design these studies so another person could step in and teach a lesson. Include questions and conversation topics as well as instructions for all activities, the schedule for each lesson, a materials list for each lesson, and a list of resources to be used when teaching the class (CD's, DVD's, books, other media).

Describe the age and abilities of the expected students (e.g., toddlers, seniors, new to Bible study or seasoned).

Include a properly documented (for example, MLA or Turabian style) list of resources you used to develop this study.

Include a form of evaluation appropriate for the students to use at the end of the class. Then write a reflection paper (double spaced) on your experience. Include the students' evaluations as well as one of your own. What did you learn? What worked? What didn't? Why? What would you change? What surprised you? Where did you experience God's activity among your group? Give evidence of what the students learned about scripture and discipleship. Please be thorough. (No more than 7 pages)
